July 30, 2019

To Our Most Valued Customers:

After 50 years we regret to inform you that D & D Farms will be closing its doors December 31, 2019.

It is with a heavy heart that we are writing this letter to inform you that we at D & D Farms, Inc. (Richie, Don, Dan and Linda Taranto) will be retiring and no longer growing and selling plants, wholesale or retail from Stow, Massachusetts.

We have been in business a very long time and have made friends with a great many of you either as vendors and customers. Making this decision has been very hard and did not come easily. It is our wish to finally slow down and "smell the flowers" so to speak rather than growing and selling them.

I'm sure most of you will understand our decision but we understand this will come as an inconvenience to your annual purchases. We recommend that you continue to use as many local growers as you can, such as J.P. Barletts, Cavicchio's or Northbrook Greenhouses. For customers located North of us we recommend King Farms and the Flower Hutch. For those South of us we recommend Patrick Lyons' Greenhouses, Olson's, and Griggs. As always, Massachusetts Flower Growers Association should remain a trusted site for all of your sourcing needs.

Please let us know if we can answer any questions or provide any assistance as you make alternate arrangements with new wholesale suppliers. We will be available to talk through December 31st, our final day of operation.

Thank you for all your years of business and support. We wish you all the best for your continued success. We will miss each and every one of you.

Most Sincerely,

Richie, Don, Dan and Linda Taranto
